Why Consider Leasing?

Today, eight out of ten American businesses use leasing to acquire assets. Here's why:

- Build capital strength
- Stay on the leading edge of technology
- Respond quickly to your changing business needs
- Preserve your credit lines
- Receive 100% financing upon approved credit
- Stretch your budget

Leasing lets you purchase the equipment and technology you need today while spreading your payments over time. You'll pay as you go, not up front—freeing up capital for investment or other business expenses instead of tying it up in fixed assets.

Investment Protection

When you select equipment or technology, you run the risk it will be outdated next year, or even next month. With leasing, that risk is minimized by building AltiGen's Software Assurance and Service Plans into your lease.

Depending on lease terms, when the lease expires, you can buy the equipment, trade it in for the latest technology, or simply walk away. With a lease, you're protected from being locked into owning equipment that may not meet your future needs—or that is obsolete before you can fully depreciate it.

Preserving Cash

Capital budgets often won't stretch to allow for an outright purchase, but your operating budget may easily accommodate a monthly payment. Leasing guarantees a fixed monthly lease payment for the length of the lease term, so it's easy to forecast your equipment expenses and even obtain equipment you hadn't planned for.
